Location

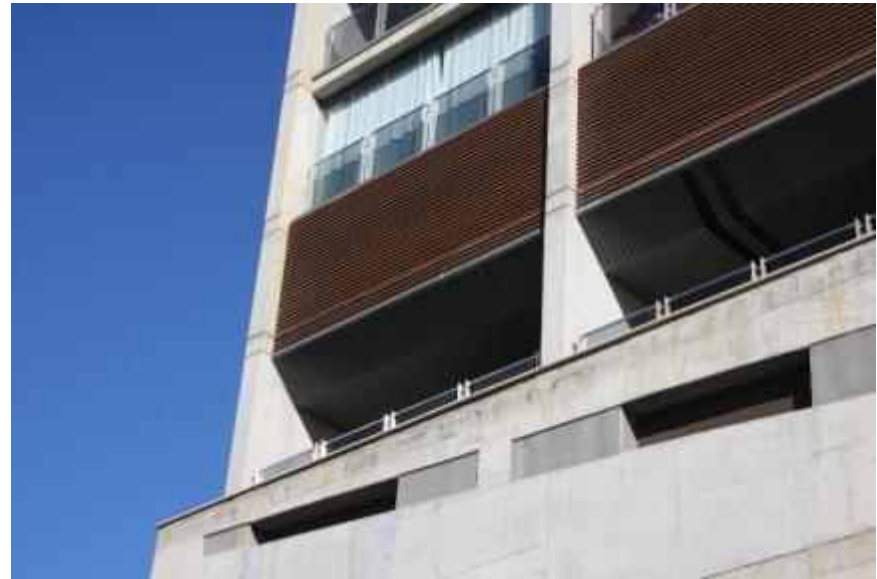

Situated in a privileged setting along the Levante beach, close to the mountains Serra Gelada rising majestically in front of the Mediterranean. From here you can see Benidorm with a birds-eye view, being one of the highest buildings of this city. Its 30 floors rising to 150 metres above sea level, turning it into a unique project.

About Benidorm

Whether you're after sandy beaches, white knuckle rides or plenty of bars, holidays in Benidorm are always wall to wall fun. This unpretentious seaside town has grown to become one of the biggest holiday resorts on the Spanish Costas. Upon first sight it's like a mini New York – all towering skyscrapers and neon lights. However, that's only part of the picture. Its beaches, Levante and Poniente, are considered to be among the finest in the Med and Benidorm's old town offers up a taste of traditional Spain, complete with tapas bars and whitewashed houses.
